State Primary Election Day Next Tuesday

• Early Voting Continues Thru Friday At McIntyre Gov't Center • 5,500 Mail-In Ballots Received As Of Monday; 15,000 Applied

By SCOTT JACKSON

Voting is now underwayfor next Tuesday's state primary, with early voting taking place through Friday at City Hall and mail-in balloting available to all residents.

The Sept. 1 state primary features a contested U.S. Senate race and Norfolk County contests that include eight candidates from Quincy. Those races - and the new ways to cast ballots this year - are expected to drive up turnout in Quincy, where City Clerk Nicole Crispo expects 30 to 35 percent of all 61,265 registered voters will vote by the times polls close next Tuesday.

Early voting took place over the weekend at North Quincy High School; 356 voters cast ballots there -198 of Saturday and 158 on Sunday, Crispo said.

Early voting will continue through Friday inside the Great Hall on the second floor of the James R. McIntyre Government Center (Old City Hall) at 1305 Hancock St. Polls will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30

Virtual Candlelight Vigil To Remember Loved Ones Lost To Substance Use Disorder

Braintree, Quincy, Weymouth Facebook Live Event Aug. 31 To Feature Remembrance Video Of Faces And Names

The three communities of Braintree, Quincy, and Weymouth are coming together on Monday, Aug. 31 to remember those who have died or suffered permanent injury due to drug overdose or substance use disorder.

Observed every year on Aug. 31st, International Overdose Awareness Day (IOAD) seeks to create better understanding of overdose, reduce the stigma of drug and alcohol related deaths, and create change that reduces the harms associated with substance use.

As a result of the limitations to large gatherings created by COVID-19, the three towns have decided to come together and create a tri-town virtual candlelight vigil. The vigil will be hosted as a Facebook live event which can be viewed at bit. ly/3XiLw at 7 p.m. Everyone is welcome to participate in the virtual event.

The vigil will feature a remembrance video of the faces and names of those lost to substance use disorder throughout the three communities. There will be an opportunity during the day to pick up candles, grief resources and a live butterfly to release in memory of loved ones lost.

To request a candle/butterfly and get pick up information visit thesunwillrise. org by Friday, Aug. 28th.

The three event coordinators said it was more important than ever during these uncertain times to continue the tradition of recognizing the impact that substance use disorder has had on the local communities.

Robyn Houston Bean, the founder of The Sun Will Rise Foundation, said, "We are putting on this event to honor our loved ones who have died or been injured because of substance use and let the families of loss know that they are not alone."

Paul Williams, Substance Use Coordinator for the ment, stated that "while the vigil will look very different from previous years we will continue to remember those we have lost to substance use, and recommit ourselves to be a resource to our community for those suffering and or struggling."

Laura Martin, the Substance Use Prevention Coordinator for the City of Quincy, said, "Although this tri-town effort came about knowledge."

Weymouth Health Depart- due to the COVID-19 restrictions on gatherings, it highlights the importance of collaboration among neighboring communities to address issues such as substance use disorder. New Restaurant To Replace Delaney's Pub

By SCOTT JACKSON

A new family restaurant could open inside the former home of Delaney's Pub on Franklin Street as soon as early 2021.

The Board of License Commissioners on Aug. 18 approved a transfer of the all-alcohol liquor license formerly held by Delaney's Pub, located at 35 Franklin St., to the new restaurant, which will be known as Franklin 35. The eatery's licensed hours are 8 a.m. to 1 a.m. six days a week, and 10 a.m. to 1 a.m. on Sundays. The board also issued a common victualler license and a cabaret license.

Franklin 35's owners are Lawrence and Tony Agnitti; the Agnittis formerly owned a restaurant in Quincy Center, Armando's, in the 1990s, according to their attorney, Robert Harnais.

Lawrence Agnitti, the manager of Franklin 35, said the new establish-

In the United States, someone dies from drowning every

One out of every five drowning victims is a child. Drowning is the number 2 leading cause of death for kids

Here are some water safety tips to keep your family safe:

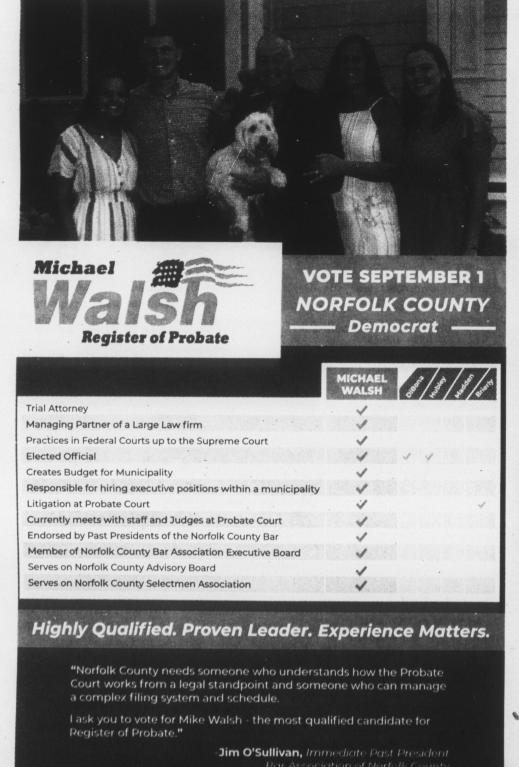

- Never swim alone, use the buddy system; this ensures there is someone who can go for help if something goes
- Supervise your children when they are in the water. A parent should be within an arms reach of a young child at
- · Young children or inexperienced swimmers should always wear a life jacket.
 - Never jump in the water to save a friend, doing so could lead to both people drowning. Throw them a flotation device or try to reach them using a long object to pull them

- Enter the water feet first; severe injuries can occur when kids jump or dive headfirst into shallow water.
- Never encourage a child to swim in water deeper than their abilities will allow.
- Never go swimming while under the influence of alcohol. It affects a person's ability to swim well by impairing judgement, coordination and balance.
- Never use alcohol while supervising your children in

Rally For Declaring Racism A Public Health Crisis Saturday

community members will be gathering Saturday, Aug. 29 at 5:30 p.m. at Faxon Field (corner of Coddington St. and Southern Artery) for a march to Quincy's City Hall to speak in support of Quincy declaring racism a public health crisis.

Rally organizers said prominent examples of police brutality and the CO-VID-19 pandemic have laid bare the impact racism has on the health and well-being of people of color in the United States.

The purpose of this rally is to highlight the ways structural racism doesn't stop at city limits: racial and ethnic minority residents of Quincy also experience adverse health impacts due to systemic racism.

"Research has shown time and time again that the structural inequities of racism result in myriads of adverse health outcomes for Black people. Acknowledging the problem is absolutely necessary as the first step towards solving it," said Denise Lin, a founder of Quincy for Transformative Change.

Declaring racism a public health crisis is a public acknowledgement that structural inequality and systemic racism have created a never-ending pandemic and such an action is a public commitment to improving the quality of life and health of Quincy's racial and ethnic minorities, organizers said.

"Racial inequities in Quincy take the form of unequal access to housing, healthcare and education. All of these inequities lead to unequal outcomes based on race and income. When we value Black lives, we will improve access to these basic necessities for all working people in Quincy," said Joe Herosy, table coordinator of the South Shore Education Justice Alliance.

"Declaring racism a public health crisis is a first step and not merely just a symbolic action" said Vicki Schow, a professor at Eastern Nazarene College. "It is an acknowledgement by people in power that racism leads to adverse health impacts and reorients the city toward taking strategic actions and allocating resources to address the sources of these inequities."

health crisis. Why isn't our leadership in Quincy treating it like one? Black men are two times more likely to be killed by police then white men. Black women are four times more likely to die of complications during childbirth than white women. Mayor Koch, it is time for you to declare racism a public health crisis in Quincy" said Rev. Mat Thomas of Bethel Church of the "Racism is a public Nazarene in Germantown.

"One of the concerns about online learning is the dread of being alone. For many of us who have never taken an online course, the thinking is that online learning is simply working on a computer, on your own, without a community," said Lisa Desruisseaux, director of Online Learning, "Here at Quincy College we know that many students want and need to be in a group learning environment, like

Connecting a face with a name can make all the difference. Students enrolled in Blended Online Courses will not be required to attend the Zoom sessions, but they can choose to if they want "synchronous" (live face-to-face) interaction for enhanced engagement and learning. This innovative model was designed to provide a balance of flexibility with personal engagement.

Offering a more personalized online option was essential as COVID-19 has restricted access to the Quincy and Plymouth campuses.

Alyson Sullivan, Norfolk County Sheriff Jerry McDermott (at podium), former Norfolk County Sheriff Michael Bellotti, and Middlesex County Sheriff Peter Koutoujian.

Officials Push For Court Video Conferencing

Norfolk County Sheriff Jerry P. McDermott was joined by state Rep. Alyson M. Sullivan (R-Abington), former Norfolk County Sheriff Michael G. Bellotti, and several other officials from across the state at the Norfolk County Correctional Center Aug. 18 to announce legislation recently filed by Sullivan, which would call for court video conferencing in order to improve court security and efficiency, as well as reduce prisoner transportation

At the onset of the pandemic, the courts were forced to issue emergency orders that all court hearings must be video conferenced, and that trials requiring the testimony of witnesses be postponed until the fall. The Sullivan Bill, HD.5204, mirrors the Court's emergency orders and would make those orders permanent by statute. The bill would also provide for the long overdue implementation of the Massachusetts Corrections Master Plan to replace the existing, inadequate and under-staffed local police lock-ups with Regional Detention Centers in the existing facilities of the Sheriff's Offices.

In a 2015 state audit of just one Sheriff's Office, the State Auditor determined in an 18-month period, that upwards of two million dollars in payroll costs alone were incurred for prisoner court transportation. The state auditor recommended maximizing the use of court video conferencing equipment provided to all courts in the state, to reduce costs and increase public safety.

"It took a pandemic to fully utilize and maximize the use of video conferencing equipment and infrastructure, provided to every courthouse in the state by the Legislature and the Sheriffs, led by then Massachusetts Sheriffs' Association President, Michael Bellotti," said Sheriff Jerry McDermott. "Without this equipment and infrastructure, as well as, trained staff in place in each Sheriff's Office, the courts would have been unable to function during the pandemic."

"We cannot move backward to a time just four months ago when thousands of unnecessary court trips took place. It is time to move forward and make the success of the emergency orders permanent," said Sullivan. "I welcome the opportunity to work with Norfolk County Sheriff, Jerry P. McDermott, former Norfolk County Sheriff, Michael G. Bellotti, the Department of Corrections, the Office of Public Safety, as well as State and local law enforcement and the Legislature to make the efforts begun by the Legislature and Sheriffs to be successfully completed in enacting this important public safety and cost reduction initiative."

"This legislation will maximize system wide use of court video conferencing for prisoner court appearances, saving millions of dollars in court transportation costs, as well as, the reduction of the potential for violence and the introduction of weapons and drugs," said former Sheriff Bellotti.

Middlesex County Sheriff Peter Koutoujian, Dukes County Sheriff Robert Ogden, Nantucket County Sheriff James Perelman, Hampden County Sheriff Nicholas Cocchi, state Rep. Michael Soter (R-Bellingham) and state Rep. David Decoste (R-Norwell) also attended and spoke in favor of the bill. All 14 county sheriffs are petitioners of

ment could open its doors as soon as January. Plans for the space are still being finalized and Agnitti said it would undergo "pretty close to a complete renovation" before opening.

Harnais and Agnitti told the board the new eatery would be a family restaurant that caters to a different crowd than Delaney's attracted.

"This will be a whole different clientele than what's been there," Harnais said. "This will be a family restaurant."

"We're looking for dining, maybe a drink or two and then out," Agnitti said. During the board meet-

Zoom, Police Chief Paul

Keenan asked about parking for the new restaurant. That area of Franklin Street is busy with traffic, the chief

"I'm a little concerned because it's congested there," Keenan said. "Hopefully it will be a big success."

Agnitti said the new restaurant, like Delaney's before it, would not have parking on site, so patrons would need to rely on on-street parking. Keenan suggested the restaurant's employees and customers could park in the space behind another building the Agnittis own nearby, which Lawrence Agnitti said would be a possibility, especially during the evening.

City Clerk Nicole Cris-

po, the chairwoman of the license board, said she looked forward to seeing more information about the new restaurant as it becomes available.

"I look forward to seeing the plans," Crispo said. "Mr. Agnitti has done a great job over there."

In other business Aug. 18, the board:

· Granted the request of Copeland Package Store, 273 Copeland St., for a change of manager for its retail liquor license. Dennis Carson, the store's manager for the past 47 years, said he planned to retire and his son, John Carson, would be taking over.

· Granted the request of the Caddy Detachment, 111 Newbury Ave., for a change in manager to Lawrence Cunningham.

· Granted a common victualler license to the Presidential Pub at 29 Temple St. Crispo said the owner of the Quincy Center barroom had applied for the common victualler license so he could sell food on site, which would allow it to re-open. State rules issued amid the COVID-19 pandemic presently do not allow bars to be open unless they prepare and serve food on site.

Commissioner Health Ruth Jones said her department is working with several other bar owners who are looking to begin preparing and serving food so they can re-open.

Expanding Telehealth Is Good For Quincy, State

By CHRISTINA SEVERIN

Postcard Collection

When it comes to healthcare visits, the coronavirus pandemic created widespread adoption of telehealth. Since then, with the continued social distancing required to keep the curve flat, telemedicine has become an absolute necessity in providing primary, behavioral, and even dental

Although telehealth today makes care accessible to many of those who need it, we must urgently expand to the most vulnerable of Quincy's residents and better serve the needs of the Commonwealth's Medicaid

Luckily, we have advantages. Massachusetts is one of few states that lifted restrictive rules around telehealth during the current emergency. Now, all forms of virtual visits (phone, video, etc.) are reimbursed at the rate of traditional office visits. Virtual visits better serve community health center patients - who largely come from underserved, low-income communities. They face lost wages when taking time from work for doctors' visits, and incur the costs of childcare, gas, tolls, and drive time.

Another advantage is a new campaign from Com-munity Care Cooperative that greatly increases telehealth capacity among Masfied Health Centers. Driven by persistent need, accelerated by the urgency of the pandemic, a key part of the campaign is the sharing of connected devices such as tablets and smartphones with patients to make access to care possible. This program closes the digital divide to narrow the health-

Telehealth is not only a lifesaver for low-income patients, it's helping to keep the doors open at the com-munity health centers that serve their needs. Because of patient concerns about getting sick while seeking care, in-person visits have been down 50 to 75 percent. If health centers were forced to close their doors, that would result in the state's healthcare system being swamped, reducing capacity at this critical time. However, combined with state and federal support, rapid adoption of telehealth is providing critical revenues to health centers during the pandemic.

There's a lot to do to ensure that the most vulnerable among us receive the best quality care. We are greatly advantaged by the work of House Majority Leader Ron Mariano, who chairs the Special Committee on Commonwealth Resilience and Recovery. Leader Mariano is identifying ways to keep workers and other patients healthy until a vaccine is developed and made available; that's minimally more than a year in the future.

The growth of telehealth proves that it's needed and that it's working. Its acceptance by MassHealth, the campaign to expand its capacity, and the support of champions like Leader Mariano are pointing the way toward a new payment model that ensures access to quality care for the most communities, vulnerable now and after the pandemic.

After 12-Year Wait, Mass Transit Returns

Mass. Transportation returns to Quincy Sept. 1 for the first time in 12 years when the long-awaited MBTA South Shore extension opens officially.

A variety of festivities are planned at the North Quincy, Wollaston and Quincy Center stations to mark the big occasion.

It will be the first time trains have operated between Quincy and Boston since the defunct Old Colony Line shut down in

The multi-million dollar MBTA line is a "first" for Quincy its first rapid transit commuter service ever.

On hand to greet the new MBTA trains will be dignitaries headed by Governor Francis W. Sargent, former Governor John A. Volpe, now Secretary of Transportation, Mayor James R. McIntyre and City Council members as well as officials of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority.

South Shore residents will be re-introduced to trains after a 12-year absence with free rides from Quincy to the "South Portal" interchange near Columbia station as guests of the MBTA.

'SUPPORT TRANSPORTATION DAY' SEPT. 1 Governor Francis W. Sargent issued a proclamation declaring Sept. 1 as "Support Public Transportation Day."

Urging all citizens of the Commonwealth to take part in the event, Sargent noted that Sept. 1 marks the inauguration of rapid transit service to the South Shore by the MBTA.

p.m. each day. No more than five voters will be allowed inside City Hall at one time.

For the first time this year, Massachusetts is also allowing all registered voters to vote by mail in both in the state primary and the Nov. 3 presidential election. The Secretary of State's Office mailed all registered voters an application to vote by mail earlier this summer; residents can also apply to vote by mail online at sec. state.ma.us. Applications to vote by mail in the primary must be received by 5 p.m. on Wednesday.

Crispo said the city had received 15,000 applications to vote by mail as of Monday, and her office had already received 5,500 ballots.

Quincy residents can drop off their mail-in ballots in a kiosk located outside City Hall. Secretary of State William Galvin last week said residents should drop off their mail-in ballots rather than place them in the mail to ensure they are received on time.

In order for a mail-in ballot to be counted in the primary, it must be received by 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 1. The state's highest court on Monday heard arguments in a lawsuit seeking to extend the deadline to receive by ballots by as many as ten

Residents who are sick or have been exposed to the coronavirus leading up to the day of the election are asked not to go to the polls. Instead, they should call 617-376-1144 on Sept. 1 for options to vote from home.

The city is taking a number of other steps to ensure the safety of voters and election workers alike. Voting booths will be cleaned throughout the day, pens will be sanitized, and hand sanitizer will be provided. While hand sanitizer will be provided, residents are asked to keep it off their ballots because that can cause Residents who do opt to issues with the tabulators used to count ballots.

> Residents can also bring their own book or clipboard on which they can fill out their ballot if they do not wish to use a voting booth.

> Crispo also recommends that voters bring some form of ID in case they are asked to provide one. That could include a license, a bill or email, among other forms of ID, as long as the voter's name and address match how they are registered.

Headlining the Democratic primary is the showdown to be the party's nominee in the U.S. Senate race. Incumbent U.S. Sen. Edward Markey of Malden is facing a challenge from U.S. Rep. Joseph Kennedy III of Newton in that contest.

new rule. (Other students learning remotely at home are not exempt.)

All other students ages

six month and up - including those in childcare, preschool and kindergarten through grade twelve - must get the vaccine in order to return to school in January. All full- and part-time college and university students, including graduate students, under the age of 30 must also be vaccinated, unless they exclusively attend classes online and never visit campus in person. All health science students need to be vaccinated regardless

New students who arrive between Jan. 1 and March 31 must have received a dose of the vaccine for the current flu season before they can enter school.

The new rule will apply in future years as well, according to Marylou Sudders, the state's health sec-

Jones said her department formerly hosted clinics for flu shots but has not done so for the past six or seven years because demand dropped as more and more people began receiving the vaccine at local pharmacies. Because the flu shot is so readily available, the department is not presently planning to offer them this year.

The Health Department, Jones added, never vaccinated individuals under the age of 18. She said parents should reach out to their family doctor for all vaccines, including flu shots.

"What we recommend is that they see their pediatricians," Jones said.

About 81 percent of schoolchildren receive a flu shot each year, state officials said.

Social Security Matters

Ask Rusty – What Will My Wife's Benefit Be If I Die?

By RUSSELL GLOOR
AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor
Association Of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: I am 76 years old and began collecting Social Security when I retired at the age of 62. My wife also began collecting SS when she turned 62 based on my benefits. She did not work enough to qualify on her own for Social Security benefits. My question is, how much will my wife receive after my death? Will she receive what I receive now, or will it be a percentage of the total that we both receive? Or will it be based on just my benefits alone or some other formula? Signed: An Inquisitive Senior

Dear Inquisitive: Your wife's survivor benefit as your widow will be based upon your Social Security benefit alone. Usually a surviving spouse receives the same amount the deceased spouse was receiving at death, if that is more than the survivor is already receiving, and if the survivor has reached their full retirement age. However, in your case, if you should predecease your wife there's a special rule which may benefit her because you claimed your benefit at age 62.

That rule says that because you claimed before your full retirement age (FRA), your wife's benefit as your survivor should be at least 82.5% of the benefit you were entitled to at your full retirement age (66), even though you actually claimed at age 62. And because your benefit was reduced by 25% when you took it at age 62, your wife's benefit as your widow may actually be more than you are receiving when you pass. This special rule is known as the "widow limit," which stipulates that a surviving spouse is entitled to the greater of what the deceased was receiving while alive, or 82.5% of the deceased's "primary insurance amount" or "PIA," which is the amount due at full retirement age.

Here's an example: If your FRA benefit amount was $1500/month, then your age 62 amount when you claimed was $1125. But due to the special rule, your wife would get $1238 (82.5% of $1500) instead of the reduced $1125 amount. Of course, this example doesn't reflect the COLA (cost of living) increases which would have been applied to your benefit over the years, but as your widow and because you claimed before your full retirement age, your wife would be entitled to at least 82.5% of your PIA if that is more than the actual amount you were receiving when you passed.

BBB Tip: Back To School Internet Safety Tips

By BETTER
BUSINESS BUREAU

Several school districts may be picking up where they left off in March when many schools in the country suddenly shut down due to concerns over coronavirus. Now, as we approach the beginning of the school year, teachers, administrators and families are adapting to an unusual first day of school, and many schools have a focus on online learning. The Better Business Bureau (BBB) encourages everyone to stay safe while online and avoid being easy targets for online scammers.

Parents: Be careful

Creating accounts on websites without permission: Social media sites are ripe with strangers with intentions that may be quite different than yours. Many sites are designed to collect and sell unauthorized user details and behaviors to advertisers looking to engage in targeted marketing. When creating an account, some kids may falsely create a birthdate to meet the minimum age requirement. Know what your child is doing online, and keep track of the social media sites and accounts to which they have Contests and giveaways: Contests and giveaways often collect a hefty amount of personal information on their entry forms. Many are thinly disguised ways of collecting personal or financial information that could lead to identity theft. Make sure your child doesn't have access to banking or credit card information, and supervise the filling out of any forms.

Phishing: Adults are not the only ones who receive spam and junk mail. Kids often get junk mail, and since they don't have much online experience, are more likely to be susceptible to click on links and answer questions they probably shouldn't. While some emails may be legitimate, the last thing parents want, or need, is a $500 bill from a fraudulent website where a purchase may have been made- or worse, giving up personal information that can be tracked back to your Understand apps. Short for "applications," apps are downloaded software that operate on various devices, such as smart phones. However, certain apps might collect and share personal information about your child, or target your child with ads. Even free apps may include paid features, and children may not understand that some apps or game features cost money, since they were labeled as free to download. They may click on these socalled free games and end up costing parents or guardians a hefty bill at the end of the month.

File sharing sites: Many websites allow children to download free media. What they may not know is these sites often come with the risk of downloading a virus, allowing identity thieves to access the gaming device, personal computer or even cell phone that's being used. From there, the cyberthief can track financial transactions, physical location or even tap into the household wifi without anyone knowing it

Teachers and administrators:

Videoconferencing tools: Just like businesses, make certain the online software used to deliver lectures, classroom work and other online interactions is secure. The days of Zoom bombing, phishing and other forms of cyber criminal activity aren't over.

Evaluate and update cybersecurity plans: The sudden shut down of in person activities left many scrambling to change course in creating and delivering a currculum. Now is the time for educators to create a plan to notify students, faculty and staff should there be a data breach or security problem once classes are back in session.

Keep a clean machine and update devices that connect to the internet: Backing up critical lesson plans, personal information and assignments is the best defense against viruses, malware and other online threats. The only way to do this is to stay up to date on the most current software to protect against them.

Tips on how to manage online privacy for the family:

Know about Children's Advertising Review Unit (CARU). CARU's self-regulatory program provides detailed guidance to children's advertisers on how to deal sensitively and honestly with children's issues. These guidelines include, but go beyond, the issues of truthfulness and accuracy to consider the uniquely impressionable and vulnerable child audience.

Know about COPPA. The Children's Online Privacy Protection Act protects personal information of children under the age of 13 on websites and online services-including apps. COPPA requires those sites and services to notify parents and get their approval before they collect, use or disclose a child's personal information. However, if your nine-year old tells Instagram they are 13 (the age requirement to use the app), he or she won't be protected by this law.

Know about FOSI. The Family Online Safety Institute brings an international perspective to the potential risks, and harms as well as the rewards of our ordine lives. The Good Digital Parenting web portal is a great resource for families looking to educate online safety measures in the Internet age.

Read privacy policies together and understand privacy settings. Parents can have their children read the privacy policies and terms of use of any apps they want to use. There might be a little grumbling that the policies "are too long" or that "it takes too much time," remind them of the importance of knowing what they are signing up for and insist that they are read. Then, take time to learn and understand the privacy settings on each of the apps and games. Less is more when it comes to sharing information.

Don't share your location. Nearly every app automatically tracks a user's location. From placing an online order for groceries or fast food to playing an online game, review the apps on all of your devices to see which ones are tracking your location. Then, if it's not needed, look in the settings to see how to disable this feature. Advise a friend or family member to avoid geo-tagging their posts with their location. Why? For example, you don't want to announce the fact your family is vacationing out of state while the house sits empty. A simple review of the geo-tagged post will reveal where you really are.

Use parental controls if necessary. Although the best way to keep a child's online privacy safe is to teach them to manage it themselves, it doesn't hurt to have their backs by using parental controls. Today Android, iOS, and most web browsers offer built-in features that allow parents to monitor their children's online activities, but third-party apps are available as well. Research the option that works best. Follow through with the child the reasons why you're monitoring their activities.

Share with care and remember, personal information is like money. What is posted online can last a lifetime: parents can teach children that any information they share online can easily be copied and is almost impossible to take back. Talk to them about who might see a post and how it might be perceived in the future, and show them how anything they do online can positively, or negatively, can impact other people. Sharing personal information can also give online thieves an idea of what login information or passwords might be used for banking accounts or other online ac-

WHAT'S COOKING

Marie & Susie

Summer Pineapple Coleslaw

Today I am sharing two recipes from my daughter-in-law, Suzanne. One recipe is for a Summer Pineapple Coleslaw and the other is for a Corn, Onion and Zucchini Sauté. Suzanne served both of these recipes while I was visiting at their home this summer.

As many times as I have bought or made coleslaw, the recipe for Pineapple Coleslaw with a twist is so different and delicious with just one added ingredient. I also love corn so much in any form so having it in this salad was wonderful and both of these dishes are great sides during the summer or

These two delicious dishes not only tasted great, but looked refreshing too!

One 8 ounce can of pineapple tidbits drained - be sure to save the juice

Three (3) cups of finely shredded cab-

1 and ½ cups of chopped red delicious apples (about 2 medium)

½ cup chopped celery

1/4 golden raisins (optional)

1/4 cup of mayonnaise

Combine the drained pineapple, cabbage, celery, and raisins in a large bowl.

Mix in the pineapple juice and the mayonnaise, tossing gently.

Cover and chill.

are translucent.

This recipe is delicious as a side dish or served with a crispy chicken salad on bun.

Corn, Onion and Zucchini Sauté with Fresh Mint

- 2 tablespoons of unsalted butter
- 1 tablespoon extra-virgin olive oil
- ½ of a large onion, diced
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 and ¼ cups diced zucchini (about 2
- 2 cups of fresh corn kernels (about 4 medium ears of can or you can use frozen)
 - 2 teaspoons of minced garlic
- 2 or 3 tablespoons of chopped fresh mint
 - 1/2 teaspoon of cumin
 - 1/4 of a freshly ground pepper

Melt half of the butter in the olive oil, add onions and salt simmer until the onions

Add remaining 1 tablespoon of butter and zucchini.

Cook until the zucchini shrinks and is almost tender.

Add the corn and garlic; cook until the corn is tender for approximately 3 or 4 min-

Remove the pan from heat and the mint and squeeze the lemon.

Stir until all mixed well. Serve warm and top with remaining mint.

Peanut Butter Cookies

By SUSIE

These cookies have no flour, or eggs and can be made in a jiffy!

(Just don't use Jiffy peanut butter. Too much sugar.)

We all have over ripe bananas and don't know what to do with them. They are great cut into pieces and frozen in baggies for smoothies, or for baking as well.

I would bet everyone has all of these ingredients in their homes most of the time, minus the chocolate chips.

Delicious and good for you as well.

If you are allergic to nuts, you can substitute a product called Sunbutter which is made from sunflower seeds rather than peanuts and makes a great substitute.

Just make sure you get the kind with no sugar or the cookies will be too sweet.

Enjoy!

- 1 cup organic peanut butter (made with just peanuts, no extra sugar, or oil)
 - 3/4 brown sugar
 - 1 very ripe banana, mashed
 - 1 teaspoon baking soda
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup organic chocolate chips

Directions

- 1. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Mix everything except the chocolate chips in a food processor (or by hand just mix well) until well combined. Stir in chocolate chips.
- 2. Using moistened hands, form generous 1 tablespoon (use more if you want bigger cookies) dough for each cookie into ball. Arrange on 2 ungreased baking sheets, spacing 2 inches apart.
- 3. Bake cookies until puffed, golden on bottom and still soft to touch in center, about 12 minutes. Cool on sheets 5 minutes. Transfer to racks; cool completely.

An Open Letter To The Quincy School Committee

(Editor's note: A copy of the following letter was submitted to The Quincy Sun for publication.)

I watched the Friday, Aug. 14 meeting with interest, having followed the selection process for the new superintendent of schools attentively for some time. Your selection of Mr. Mulvey over Dr. Jahmal Mosley represented a serious missed opportunity. While Mr. Mulvey may in fact do a good job as superintendent, the opportunity to bring on board an experienced educator of color as educational leader was right in front of you. The choice to select Mr. Mulvey because he was the internal candidate overlooks the reality of issues in the district that many students have named. I refer you to the July 2, 2020 Boston Globe article: Quincy students of color are frustrated by inaction on racial harassment. Now they're speaking out on Instagram.

While the vote itself was disappointing, the conversation was disturbing. I list some of the meeting's more problematic statements be-

In fact, I found myself in shock wondering if I had been flung back in time to 1955. The comments divulge an anti-intellectual disposition-which is not what I expect of decision makers in charge of a school district that you assert is "second to none." Backs Mulvey, Back-To-School Plan

As I read the Quincy Sun's front page (Aug. 20th, 2020), I was glad to see that the school committee has selected Kevin Mulvey as Quincy's new school superintendent. He is more than qualified to run Quincy Public Schools. He knows what is needed to do the job since having been deputy superintendent since 2013. Good choice especially during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Also, I like very much the back-to-school model being implemented by Quincy Public Schools using a hybrid model for Pre-K - Grade 3 students and remote learning for Grades 4-12. The younger students really need to get back into a structured classroom setting. All the experts seem to agree that children learn best when physically present in the classroom. School policies should be guided by supporting the overall health and well being of children. We should always be ensuring kids get the education they need. Even the Centers for Disease Control says it is in the public health interest that students get back into schools for face to face learning.

To continue with all remote learning for too long will only bring both emotional harm and academic consequences for students. Their lives have already been disrupted and prolonged isolation with remote learning poses great risks to school-age children. I believe the Quincy model about to start for the upcoming school year is a good start. There isn't a correct model because we still don't know enough about this virus. If it proves the hybrid model isn't a healthy one, the fallback is going fully remote. However, if the arguments against physical reopenings are weaker than they at first appear, the school system can slowly introduce additional grades to the hybrid model. Bottom line is this: The top duty of school administrators is to ensure children get the education they need and also not to get our students sick at the same time.

Binge Drinking: A Path To Destruction Not A Rite Of Passage

By RUTH JONES MSPH, BSN, RN, BC, CP-FS

Excessive drinking over a brief period of time is referred to as binge drinking. In order to be considered a "binge," the drinker's blood alcohol concentration (BAC) must reach or exceed 0.08 grams per 100 grams of blood. This usually happens when a male consumes 5 or more drinks or a female consumes 4 or more drinks over the course of approximately 2 hours. While some college students declare they're only trying to have a good time, patterns of excessive drinking can be hazardous and lead to devastating consequences. This approach to drinking poses serious health and safety risks, including car crashes, drunk-driving arrests, sexual assaults, and injuries. Over the long term, repeated binge drinking can damage the liver and other organs.

Harmful and underage college drinking are significant public health problems, and take an immense toll on the academic and social lives of students across the United States. Drinking at college has become a ritual that students often see as an essential part of their higher education experience. Numerous students enter college with established drinking habits, and the college environment can intensify the problem. According to a national survey, almost 60 percent of college students ages 18–22 drank alcohol in the past month, and almost 2 out of 3 of them engaged in binge drinking during that same timeframe. Drinking affects college students, their families, and entire college communities. Researchers estimate that each

• About 1,825 college students between the ages of 18 and 24 die from alcohol-related unintentional injuries, including motorvehicle crashes.

• About 696,000 students between the ages of 18 and 24 are assaulted by another student who has been drinking.

Study Shows Possible Link Between Gum Disease And COVID-19 Virus

By STANLEY HURWITZ

Your next trip to the dentist may actually save your life.

Based on a forthcoming study, Dr. Andrew Chase of ARCH Orthodontics, with eight offices from Boston to Cape Cod, is sounding an alarm regarding a possible connection between the COVID-19 virus and periodontal disease. The research suggests that hospitalized coronavirus patients with prior underlying gum disease can be at higher risk for respiratory failure. The study will be published in the October 2020 issue of the Journal of the California Dental Association.

Periodontitis or gum disease is a serious gum infection that damages soft tissue. Without treatment, the condition can destroy the bone that supports teeth and can cause teeth to loosen or lead to tooth loss. Dr. Chase, practicing since 1998, says, "Gum disease is preventable as it can result from poor oral hygiene. Brushing, flossing and regular dental checkups can greatly reduce your chance of developing gum disease, most common among men in their 30s and

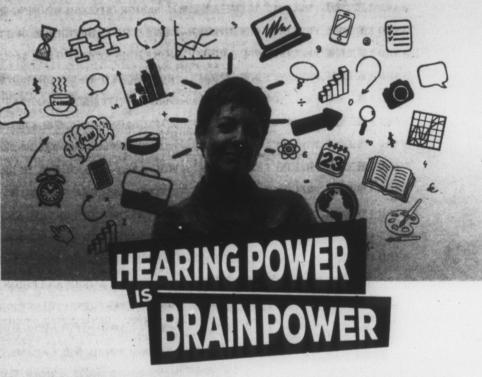

"The likelihood of developing gum disease is less when your teeth are properly positioned and aligned because your gums fit snugly and properly around aligned teeth," Dr. Chase said. "A snug-fitting gum line leaves little room for nooks and crannies where plaque and bacteria accumulate and promote infection. The risk of gum disease can incre during Orthodontic treatment because braces can trap bits of food that are hard to remove. That becomes plaque which can lead to gingivitis, the first stage of gum disease."

The ARCH team stresses the importance of maintaining routine dental exams and professional cleanings with your regular dentist Orthodontic throughout treatment. For patients who already have gum disease, prescribed teeth movement during Orthodontic treatment needs special attention by both the dentist and Orthodontist. Invisalign might be a good option for patients with periodontal disease because you can remove aligners to brush and floss. The added bonus is having a virtually invisible Orthodontic reatment

Also related to the pandemic, Dr. Chase says, "To ensure our patients' wellbeing, we follow or exceed the CDC's precautions. We've augmented aggressive protocols including strict social distancing and added facial protection; air purification systems; asking those accompanying patients to wait areas; and ongoing sanitizing. A new option to reduce potential virus transmission is Remote Dental Monitoring, an app enabling patients to reduce the number of office visits, in which the patient submits weekly selfies of their teeth and smile for review by their doctor." Summer Pineapple Coleslaw

By MARIE

Today I am sharing two recipes from my daughter-in-law, Suzanne. One recipe is for a Summer Pineapple Coleslaw and the other is for a Corn, Onion and Zucchini Sauté. Suzanne served both of these recipes while I was visiting at their home this summer.

As many times as I have bought or made coleslaw, the recipe for Pineapple Coleslaw with a twist is so different and delicious with just one added ingredient. I also love corn so much in any form so having it in this salad was wonderful and both of these dishes are great sides during the summer or

These two delicious dishes not only tasted great, but looked refreshing too!

One 8 ounce can of pineapple tidbits drained - be sure to save the juice

Three (3) cups of finely shredded cab-

1 and ½ cups of chopped red delicious apples (about 2 medium)

½ cup chopped celery 1/4 golden raisins (optional)

1/4 cup of mayonnaise

Combine the drained pineapple, cabbage, celery, and raisins in a large bowl.

Mix in the pineapple juice and the mayonnaise, tossing gently.

Cover and chill.

This recipe is delicious as a side dish or served with a crispy chicken salad on bun.

Corn, Onion and Zucchini Sauté with Fresh Mint

2 tablespoons of unsalted butter

1 tablespoon extra-virgin olive oil

½ of a large onion, diced Salt and pepper to taste

1 and ¼ cups diced zucchini (about 2

2 cups of fresh corn kernels (about 4 medium ears of can or you can use fro-

2 teaspoons of minced garlic

2 or 3 tablespoons of chopped fresh mint

½ teaspoon of cumin

1/4 of a freshly ground pepper

Melt half of the butter in the olive oil, add onions and salt simmer until the onions are translucent.

Add remaining 1 tablespoon of butter and zucchini.

Cook until the zucchini shrinks and is almost tender.

Add the corn and garlic; cook until the corn is tender for approximately 3 or 4 min-

Remove the pan from heat and the mint and squeeze the lemon.

Stir until all mixed well. Serve warm and top with remaining mint.

Peanut Butter Cookies

By SUSIE

These cookies have no flour, or eggs and can be made in a jiffy!

(Just don't use Jiffy peanut butter. Too

We all have over ripe bananas and don't know what to do with them. They are great cut into pieces and frozen in baggies for smoothies, or for baking as well.

I would bet everyone has all of these ingredients in their homes most of the time, minus the chocolate chips.

Delicious and good for you as well.

If you are allergic to nuts, you can substitute a product called Sunbutter which is made from sunflower seeds rather than peanuts and makes a great substitute.

Just make sure you get the kind with no sugar or the cookies will be too sweet.

Enjoy!

1 cup organic peanut butter (made with just peanuts, no extra sugar, or oil)

3/4 brown sugar

1 very ripe banana, mashed

1 teaspoon baking soda

1 teaspoon vanilla

1/2 cup organic chocolate chips

1. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Mix verything except the chocolate chips in a food processor (or by hand just mix well) until well combined. Stir in chocolate chips.

2. Using moistened hands, form generous 1 tablespoon (use more if you want bigger cookies) dough for each cookie into ball. Arrange on 2 ungreased baking sheets, spacing 2 inches apart.

3. Bake cookies until puffed, golden on bottom and still soft to touch in center. about 12 minutes. Cool on sheets 5 minutes. Transfer to racks; cool completely.

An Open Letter To The Quincy School Committee

(Editor's note: A copy of the following letter was submitted to The Quincy Sun for publication.)

I watched the Friday, Aug. 14 meeting with interest, having followed the selection process for the new superintendent of schools attentively for some time. Your selection of Mr. Mulvey over Dr. Jahmal Mosley represented a serious missed opportunity. While Mr. Mulvey may in fact do a good job as superintendent, the opportunity to bring on board an experienced educator of color as educational leader was right in front of you. The choice to select Mr. Mulvey because he was the internal candidate overlooks the reality of issues in the district that many students have named. I refer you to the July 2, 2020 Boston Globe article: Quincy students of color are frustrated by inaction on racial harassment. Now they're speaking out on Instagram.

While the vote itself was disappointing, the conversation was disturbing. I list some of the meeting's more problematic statements be-

None of the above words engendered any confidence in me that the school committee would make a thoughtful decision that would move the school district forward. In fact, I found myself in shock wondering if I had been flung back in time to 1955. The comments divulge an anti-intellectual disposition-which is not what I expect of decision makers in charge of a school district that you assert is "second to none." As an educator, hearing such dialogue at a school committee meeting left me dumbfounded.

As leaders, you failed to hear the outcries for justice from so many students, and for that I am angry. I challenge the members of the Quincy School Committee to select a book on racism and bias and to read it as a group, followed up by a facilitated discussion.

Backs Mulvey, Back-To-School Plan

As I read the Quincy Sun's front page (Aug. 20th, 2020), I was glad to see that the school committee has selected Kevin Mulvey as Quincy's new school superintendent. He is more than qualified to run Quincy Public Schools. He knows what is needed to do the job since having been deputy superintendent since 2013. Good choice especially during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Also, I like very much the back-to-school model being implemented by Quincy Public Schools using a hybrid model for Pre-K - Grade 3 students and remote learning for Grades 4-12. The younger students really need to get back into a structured classroom setting. All the experts seem to agree that children learn best when physically present in the classroom. School policies should be guided by supporting the overall health and well being of children. We should always be ensuring kids get the education they need. Even the Centers for Disease Control says it is in the public health interest that students get back into schools for face to face learning.

To continue with all remote learning for too long to the hybrid model. will only bring both emotional harm and academic consequences for students. Their lives have already been disrupted and prolonged isolation with remote learning poses great risks to school-age children. I believe the Quincy model about to start for the upcoming school year is a good start. There isn't a correct model because we still don't know enough about this virus. If it proves the hybrid model isn't a healthy one, the fallback is going fully remote. However, if the arguments against physical reopenings are weaker than they at first appear, the school system can slowly introduce additional grades

Bottom line is this: The top duty of school administrators is to ensure children get the education they need and also not to get our students sick at the same time.

Financial Pressure Points To Evaluate During COVID Times and now the COVID-19 financial pressure points or exacerbated existing ones for many individuals and families.

But to navigate those - Keep It: The Definitive

Financial pressure is a pressures and build a sucpart of life for most people, cessful financial strategy, you must first identify where pandemic has brought new the pressures are coming from, says John Smallwood, president of Smallwood Wealth Management and author of "It's Your Wealth

On Your Wealth."

"Once you've identified financial pressures," Smallwood says, "you can decide mitigate or reduce that presing, Enjoying, and Passing steps, you may end up repeating the mistakes of the past and never reach your financial goals.

"Major lifetime events" what steps you will take to such as the pandemic and the financial crisis of 2007sure now and in the future. 2008 can result in big fi-

Guide to Growing, Protect- But if you don't take any nancial setbacks for people and their portfolios for years thereafter. But identifying financial pressure points allows you to capture unique dynamics and elements of your financial life and form the building blocks of a wealth plan."

Smallwood says to identify specific financial pressures, focus on the following areas:

· Family. "The key to a successful wealth plan is not just the numbers," Smallwood says. "What matters is the family dynamics spouse, ex-spouses, children, parents, siblings, and in-laws. And right now, changes within a home can be tremendous because of the virus." There are business struggles and cashflow issues. Meanwhile, children are at home more because schools are uncertain of when they will be in session. Smallwood says the ages, health, and financial situations of all the individual members of the family can have an impact on the overall finances.

· Income. "The majority of people have less than $50,000 in the bank," Smallwood says, "and they have more in qualified and nonqualified assets. Where most balance sheets fall down is by looking only at income. You also want to look at all of the liabilities and future liabilities, and how assets and interests will determine income and cover your obligations in the future."

· Taxes. Knowing the details of your taxes can lead to better planning around them and lessen that pressure point. "Most people do not know what they really pay in federal or state taxes," Smallwood says. "If you look at the income and understand where the taxes are, you can begin to find strategies for reducing the amount of income that shows up on a tax return, but still get money back and grow the wealth."

· Savings. What percentage of income are you actually saving, and where is going? "If it's going to a retirement plan, we want to know whether any available employer match is being maximized," Smallwood says. "Is the savings being built up in life insurance cash values or annuities? But when it comes to saving, it's all about the habit itself."

· Debt structure. Debt can include everything from credit cards to car loans, mortgages to student loans. "The key with debt is to look at how it is structured," Smallwood says. "Is the cash flow optimal? Paying. off debt is a form of savings, but if it's done the wrong way, you won't have enough liquidity."

"It's critical to view the whole financial picture and see where you are spending and saving money currently," Smallwood says. "If you don't know, you're not going to get to where you want to go."

BBB Tips For Buying A Home Security System

By BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU

Millions of homeowners seek to secure their homes, families, and belongings with a home security system (often called a burglar alarm). Better Business Bureau has received hundreds of thousands of inquiries from consumers researching security system companies.

BBB has also received many complaints from consumers about less-than-ethical companies attempting to get them to switch their alarm service. This is often done by a door-to-door salesman claiming to be the consumer's current provider and offering an "upgrade" or by saying their current alarm service is out of business or was sold to the doorto-door salesperson's busi-

Make sure the company you choose is credible by searching on BBB.org and following these tips:

· Choose a reputable business. The best home security system will accommodate your lifestyle and specific valuables you want to be protected. Carefully consider your security requirements and budget. You may also get recommendations from your homeowners insurance agency or renters insurance carrier. Deal only with reputable firms and check out the company with BBB first.

· Contact at least three companies before making a selection. Find out if they are properly licensed in your jurisdiction and ask if the company runs a criminal background check on employees prior to hiring. You can also look up companies on the websites of the Electronic Security Association and the Canadian Security Association to make sure they have pledged to uphold industry standards.

· Ask about all charges up front. Prices for home security systems will vary

$6.4M Bond To Buy, Preserve 32 Units Of Mixed-Income Housing

MassDevelopment has issued a $6.4 million tax-exempt bond on behalf of Bersani Circle LLC, an affiliate of Karsten Companies, ing tax credits, which will which will use proceeds to buy, renovate, and equip Atlantic Gardens, a 32-unit mixed-income multifamily rental housing facility in Quincy.

In addition to the tax-exempt bond, MassDevelopment assisted the Massachusetts Department of Housing Companies buy, renovate, and Community Development with the approval of federal low-income housprovide approximately $2.8 million in equity for the project. East Boston Savings Bank purchased the bond, which MassDevelopment also enhanced with a guarantee.

"MassDevelopment is proud to help Karsten and preserve the long-term affordability of Quincy's Atlantic Gardens," said MassDevelopment President and CEO Lauren Liss. "As Massachusetts faces a housing shortage, our taxexempt bond financing is a cost-effective tool to help developers build or preserve affordable housing across the state."

Founded in 1986 by award-winning construction manager John Iredale, Karsten Companies is a vertically integrated construction and development firm that serves the northeast

Atlantic Gardens consists of eight separate buildings that contain three marketrate units and 29 affordable units, which are rented to households earning no more than 60% of the area median income. Karsten Companies will preserve the affordability of those units and undertake a series of renovations at the facility, including installing new roofing, siding, doors, and security enhancements, upgrading the kitchens, bathrooms, plumbing, and electric systems, and completing other improvements.

MassDevelopment, the state's finance and development agency, works with businesses, nonprofits, banks, and communities to stimulate economic growth. During FY2019, Mass-Development financed or managed 316 projects generating investment of more than $2 billion in the Massachusetts economy. These projects are estimated to create or support 9,743 jobs and build or preserve 1,992 housing units.

· High-pressure sales tactics. A reputable seller will give you time to think through the deal and will make an appointment to return at a later date. Do not give in to high-pressure sales tactics; take time to do your research and make an informed decision.

· Deals that sound too good to be true. Some sellers might offer an extremely good price for their products or services. The adage holds true that you get what you pay for, and many people have been quickly disappointed when the products didn't live up to the hype or the company did a shoddy

· Lack of company identification. Any legitimate salesperson will be able to provide you with positive identification for both themselves and their company. Also, beware of sellers who don't appear to have any ties to the community. Itinerant workers often enter and exit an area quickly, and may not deliver everything promised.

· A poor rating with BBB. Always check with BBB first to see a business's rating, how they've handled complaints, as well as customer reviews and other information available in the BBB Business Profile.

What happens if you change your mind after the sale? In the United States, the "cooling off" rule is three days for door-to-door sales. In Canada, the cooling off period varies by province. For more information on federal laws on door-todoor sales: check out the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

When shopping for a burglar alarm, it is important to research the companies you're considering. We hope these tips help you find the right home security system for your family.

"As your elected Norfolk County Register of Deeds, I am pleased to inform county homeowners about a valuable consumer protection tool," O'Donnell said, "Indeed, for most of us our home is the most important financial asset we have. If you own a home, and it is your primary residence, one way to protect it is to file a Homestead. The Homestead er with limited protection against the forced sale of their primary residence to satisfy unsecured debt up to $500,000."

Another feature of the Norfolk County Reg- Homestead law is the al-Elderly Homestead application, which defines an elder as a person who is 62 years of age or older. This protection can be increased if the elderly couple are each 62 years of age or older and file

"Back in March of 2011, the Homestead law was updated by an act of the Mas-Legislature," sachusetts O'Donnell said. "Current law states a valid Homestead cannot be terminated when refinancing a mortgage. Other enhancements that took place back in 2011 law provides a homeown- state that a Homestead can provide protections for a primary home even if it is kept in trust. The definition of a primary residence was also further expanded to include a manufactured or

While a Homestead provides important protections for homeowners, it is important to note there are certain debts that are exempted from protection under the Homestead Act. These include federal, state and local tax liens, as well as mortgages contracted for the purchase of a primary home and nursing home liens. Most other mortgages, debts, and encumbrances existing prior to the filing of the Declaration of Homestead, along with probate court executions for spousal and child support, are also not covered under the Homestead protection

On Aug. 18, members of the Quincy Police DCU were conducting surveillance at the Home Depot on Centre Street when detectives observed a brown Ford Explorer in the parking lot. Detectives queried the license plate and learned that it had been queried 7 times by members of the Boston Police.

Detectives contacted Boston PD and spoke to one of the officers that had previously run the plate. The Boston Police detective told members of the DCU that the Explorer was associated with a previous gang investigation and provided the name of the operator of the vehicle (who was not the registered owner). Both the BPD and QPD know this party to be a drug dealer. At approximately 6:20 p.m., a gray Nissan Altima bearing a NH Reg pulled into the lot of Home Depot. Detectives queried the license plate and saw that the vehicle was registered to EAN Holdings and had also been queried previously by the Boston and Easton Police Departments. All detectives involved in this investigation know that it is common for drug dealers to utilize rental cars as a means to shield their identity and criminal history from law enforcement.

Detectives watched as the Altima pulled into a parking space behind the Explorer. A black male exited the rear passenger side of the Altima and entered into the front passenger seat of the Explorer. Within one minute, detectives observed as the black male exited the Explorer holding a purple colored bottle and got back into the rear seat of the Altima. Both cars then simultaneously pulled away and began to exit the parking lot. Detectives believed they had just observed a drug transaction.

Detectives followed the Explorer from Home Depot. Officer Foley stopped the Explorer by activating his emergency blue lights as it got on to the on ramp to Route 3 in Quincy. Officer Foley approached on the driver's side and a DCU detective was on the passenger side. Both Officer Foley and the detective observed a large fold of currency in the cup holder/center console area. The operator of the Explorer provided a license to Officer Foley and was asked to step out of the vehicle based on the location of the stop.

to adapt to the decision so they can have a season."

The football program, Carey added, "will continue to follow the safety rules and guidelines that have been laid out," by state officials and the MIAA.

Ryan Craig, the head coach at North Quincy High School, called the decision by the MIAA a disappointment, but said the team would be ready to play when the season does start.

"As a football team we are extremely disappointed that the season has been delayed. Early on in this thing we told our kids if we do this right, we may have a shot at having a season. They did everything we asked of them, staying home, homebased body weight workouts, conditioning any way they could," Craig said in an email. "The decision to delay football is tough to take. All other sports are slated to start this fall except football and competitive cheer.

"Fortunately, the MIAA has come up with a plan to create a four-season schedule for high school sports. Football and cheer are slotted to play in the third season which begins on Feb. 22. As a team we will do what the MIAA will allow us to do and get ready for our season. North Quincy kids are resilient! When it comes to play, we will be ready."

The four-season approach approved by the MIAA for the upcoming school year replaces the traditional three-season model used in typical years. Student-athletes will be allowed to participate in all four seasons.

The fall season will run from Sept. 18 to Nov. 20 and will include soccer, gymnastics, cross country, field hockey, girls' volleyball, swimming and diving, golf and dance.

The winter sports season is set to begin Nov. 30 and conclude Feb. 21. Sports scheduled for then include basketball, hockey, wrestling, winter gymnastics, indoor track and field, skiing, and winter cheerleading, dancing and swimming and

A second fall season, also known as a floating season, would then take place from Feb. 22 to April 25. Three sports not allowed to take place in first autumn season - football, fall cheerleading and unified basketball – would be held during that time. Districts that need to cancel other fall sports seasons because of the pandemic could potentially reschedule them during this

The spring season – April 26 to July 3 - would include baseball, lacrosse, tennis, boys' volleyball, rugby, girls golf, crew and sailing.

The MIAA also authorized out-of-season coaching during the upcoming school year, with permission from a member school's principal, meaning teams like football and cheerleading that cannot play this fall could potentially still prac-

Most people know Mike Bellotti as a former Legislator or County Sheriff. One person thinks there's a lot more you should know about her Dad...

My Dad has always worked in the best interests of others.

He implemented safety programs for older citizens which saved lives.

He established leadership camps that have served thousands of kids.

The inmate programs he created became national models for recovery and corrections.

When Quincy College's nursing program lost accreditation, my Dad took on the challenge as interim president and, under his leadership, the nursing program was revived.

My Dad is not "politics as usual." Far from it. He is responsive and effective. He takes on tough tasks and solves problems. He taught my brothers and me to work hard, help others and always take the high road. We know he will be a great Treasurer for Norfolk County.

Please consider voting for my Dad, Mike Bellotti, on September 1st.

Thank you. Colleen Bellotti

On Display Today The Boston Cannons will host a trophy viewing party at Veterans' Memorial Stadium today (Thursday) from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. as a celebration of the team's 2020 MLL Championship win.

The event is free and open to the public.

Fans and residents are invited to visit the stadium, where they can take photos with the 2020 MLL Championship trophy. Boston Cannons Head Coach and Major League Lacrosse Coach of the Year Sean Quirk will be in attendance, as well as members of the Boston Cannons dance team.

"We're excited to kick off our 2020 Championship celebration with our fans at home in Quincy," said Mark Drago, the Cannons' Vice President of Operations.

The Boston Cannons have developed a comprehensive protocol surrounding the Steinfeld Trophy. Attendees are not permitted to touch the trophy and must wear a mask at all times at the event. Viewers will be required to sanitize their hands prior to approaching the trophy.

Event attendance is limited to 50 persons inside the venue at a time due to CO-VID-19.

Boston Cannons 2020 Championship merchandise will be available for purchase at the event. Due to the pandemic, buyers will not be permitted to try on merchandise.

recommended that schools adjust their schedules to limit travel and the number of opponents.

The vote by the MIAA board came one day after the MIAA and the state Department of Elementary and Secondary Education issued new guidance on high school athletics.

"Sports can be an important part of a well-rounded educational experience, even during the current public health crisis. Notwithstanding the risks associated with COVID-19, organized physical activity should be encouraged, within clear health and safety parameters," the DESE and MIAA said. "Most sports can be played in ways that minimize those risks.

"In many cases, that will mean that inter-scholastic competitions may not look the same and may need to be played under fairly stringent restrictions with modified rules. Unfortunately, in some cases, competitive play may need to be cancelled or postponed. While difficult for all involved, it is essential that we keep health and safety paramount, both for everyone directly involved and the wider community."

. The MIAA board is slated to reconvene on Oct. 29, during which time it will consider recommendations for the winter season. The joint guidance from the DESE and MIAA had noted certain high-risk sports scheduled for later in the school year, such as hockey, basketball, wrestling, boys' lacrosse and rugby, could potentially have their seasons pushed back as well.

The guidance also sets new rules for athletics in districts with remote-only

Districts designated as "red" based on the Department of Public Health's metrics, and thus have their students learning remotely, must postpone their entire season, including practices, to the floating season. Ten communities - Brockton, Chelsea, Everett, Lawrence, Lynn, Revere, Salem, Saugus, South Hadley and Winthrop - were designated red, or at high-risk for COVID-19 transmission, as of Aug. 19, the most recent date on which the DPH published community-level data.

Districts designated as "yellow," "green" or "unshaded" by the DPH that also have high school students learning remotely can participate in the regularly scheduled season with approval from the local school committee. Quincy was among those municipalities designated as a green community on Aug. 19 and students at the city's two high schools are slated to start the school year learning re-

The guidance states that the MIAA "will develop a timeline for looking at data prior to the start of each season to determine which color-coded designation a district should fall into for the purposes of engaging in sports." It suggests, for example, that Sept. 1 could be used as date to determine initial eligibility for the fall season, which could be rechecked on Oct. 1.

Rapid COVID-19 Testing Available To Schools

By SCOTT JACKSON

School districts throughout Massachusetts will have access to rapid mobile tests for COVID-19 this fall in the event clusters of cases arise among students or

Gov. Charlie Baker on Aug. 20 said districts would have access to the tests on an as-needed basis.

"This program will be designed to quickly deliver testing resources for students and school personnel if there are multiple cases in a cohort that require largerscale testing than a community can have access to currently," Baker said.

"The testing program is not a replacement for necessary testing for students and staff who are symptomatic. As we've been saying for month, if you are feeling sick with COVID-19 symptoms, you should stay home, and you should certainly not go to school or go to work."

Marylou Sudders, the state's secretary of health and human services, said school districts would consult with local health officials to determine whether to request rapid testing. Sudders identified several situations where rapid tests could be sought, such as two or more individuals from the same classroom testing positive for COVID-19 within a 14-day period.

"We see this as a response to school concern that they might have a cluster in development within a school, within a cohort in

The Department of Public Health and Department of Elementary and Secondary Education are in the process of creating new guidelines for deploying the rapid tests in schools; those rules are expected in the coming

"Obviously for everyone that has a runny nose, we're not going to come out," Sudders said. "There has to be some parameters involved."

Sudders said the program would use standard molecular (PCR) tests rather than other methods that can produce false negatives.

Baker also announced that the state's Stop the Spread initiative - which currently includes free testing sites in 20 communities - would be extended through the end of the September. That program had been set to end in the middle of next month.

All Massachusetts residents, not just those who live in one of the Stop the Spread communities, are eligible for free COVID-19 tests at those locations letters in which writers were upset that any push to ameliorate life in Quincy for all her citizens was inappropriate. First, let me say, I love this city. I love running by the beach; the history; the sea air that rolls in every evening reminding me of summers spent on Long Beach Island, New Jersey; etc. Many wonderful people live here.

READERS FORUM

While I did not grow up here, I have been in Quincy for over 20 years and a New Englander since 1989. Quincy is my adopted home. Quincy has such a varied population of all ethnicities, religions, sexual orientations and most all citizens of this great city have one thing in common, this is their home. Quincy belongs to all of us and not just those from long-established Quincy families. Politicians will often use the phrase, "good Ouincy families" and "tradition."

Many residents, perhaps most, who call Quincy home are not from long established "good Quincy families". Nevertheless, many of us, are good taxpaying citizens. "Good Quincy families" is code for nepotism, racism, and religious intolerance. "Good Quincy families" means white and, preferably, catholic. We are a city of almost 100,000 people and have no synagogue. We have a large Asian population, many of whom have bought homes, started businesses, and have helped our city thrive.

"Our city", yes she is all of ours, not just those of "good Quincy families". Similarly, "tradition" is code for white, good 'ole boys and their activities. Those of

I read the recent reader us not from "Good Quincy families" are not less than descendants of long established Quincy families. We are your neighbors and your friends.

> In 1980, about 750 Asians were residents of Quincy. The number of Asian residents increased to about 22,174 by 2010. In North Quincy, in 1988, a fight broke out between about 50 white and Vietnamese young men in which six people were hospitalized. Since then, Quincy has made great strides to lessen racial tensions. Presently, Quincy is about 60.4% white, 31.2% asian, 5.2% black, 3% hispanic, 0.2% other. As Quincy grows more diverse, maybe it is time to retire the notion of "good Quincy families" and to rethink what constitutes "tradition."

For a school committee to clearly state that what is important is tradition and 'no change' is unconscionable. The school system must lead with the ability to adjust and learn as we as a society learn. I am the first person to defend Quincy when I hear our great city debased. However, we can do better. For examples of reticence to change, Quincy government has fought against a LG-BTQ marriage equality banner at the United First Parish Church (UFPC) as well as a rainbow flag at the UFPC church. Quincy government refuses to fly a rainbow flag for LGBTQ Pride.

However, to his credit, when I met with the Mayor a number of years ago before the first Quincy LG-BTQ Pride, he was quick to offer Pageant Field for Pride events. This gives me hope. Fear of change and of differences is normal, but each of us has the power to decide how we act on those fears.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This could be the time to try soothing whatever bad feelings might be lingering 'twixt and among colleagues, friends or family members. But be sure you do so without favoring any

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) An idea is only an idea until you put that clever Bovine mind to work to develop it from concept to substance. This could lead to something rewarding, both emotionally and monetarily. GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) The early part of the week could have some disconcerting moments, but approaching them with a calm, unruffled attitude goes a long way toward helping to get things nicely settled down CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Getting used to change continues to mark much of the week. But accepting what you have to do makes adapting that much easier. A welcome visitor could turn up sooner than expected.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Learning how to live with a decision is a challenge, but one you Leos and Leonas could really enjoy. You'll also be pleased to see your social life take that upsurge you've been hoping for.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Use your perceptive Virgo instinct to help you see the positive aspects of what, at first, appears to be a disappointment. You could find that it proves to be quite the contrary.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your ability to maintain a balance between sense and sentiment once again helps you sort through apparently conflicting choices and ultimately arrive at the right decision.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Before you seek the advice of colleagues about a potential career move, you might be better off getting counsel from someone who won't be affected by the choices you

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) It can be a challenging week for some relationships if the normal give-and-take flow changes with one side doing most of the giving and the other the taking.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A new opportunity could bring with it much anticipation along with some anxiety. Take time to sort out your options as well as your emotional considerations.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Are you sure you have all the facts you need to let that matter move to another level? Don't be rushed into a decision unless and until you feel it's the right thing to do.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Pace yourself as you prepare to take on that more demanding project. Be careful not to let your energy reserves drain away. Take time to relax with people close to you.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have the ability to see both sides of a situation. You would do well as a counselor or a judge.

HOLLYWOOD -- Come December, Oprah Winfrey's "O" Magazine will cease to exist in hard copy. Twenty years ago, "O" became an instant success which grew to a 2.2 million paid subscription and a readership of 10 million. But it will now be a "digitally centric" "O." If this is successful, will "People Magazine" be next?

With the passing of Olivia de Havilland on July 26 at age 104, we lost the last living cast member of the greatest film ever made, "Gone With the Wind" (1939).

On June 30, 2017, at 101, Dame Olivia sued the FX Network and producer Ryan Murphy for inaccurately portraying her and using her likeness without permission in their mini-series "Feud: Bette and Joan." The motion was denied in September 2017 and she appealed to the Supreme Court, which also struck down her lawsuit. Dame Olivia was trying to protect her good name and image from being used adversely by writers inventing dialogue that she never spoke, which was delivered by Catherine Zeta-Jones, who portrayed her.

She was a very special lady. I had two encounters with her. The first when I was 17. A friend and I went to The Plaza Hotel to see her as she checked out to go back to Los Angeles. We stood near the elevators, and in due time she appeared holding a dozen roses and a fivepound box of Russell Stover chocolates. We asked for and were granted an autograph, and after posing for photos, she handed the dozen roses to my lady friend, saying "I'd like you to have these." She then turned to me and asked, "Do you have a mother?" I said I did, and she handed me the box of chocolates and said, "Please give this to your mother as a gift from me." My mother didn't believe the chocolates were from Olivia de Havilland until I showed her the pictures of Olivia holding it. In 2008, when The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences celebrated what would have been Bette Davis' 100 birthday, I attended with Gena Rowlands, who was speaking that night about working with Bette Davis. Robert Osborne, one of the hosts, said, "The next person to appear was to be Olivia de Havilland, but she lives in Paris and it's difficult for her to travel." A man walked out, whispered in his ear and he said, "She's here, Olivia's here," just like in the famous scene at the end of Judy Garland's "A Star Is Born." Needless to say, the crowd went wild. At the reception I reminded her about the chocolates, and she loved it when I told her my mother never let me have even one piece!

Ceramic Dancers --- Pairs of in dishware; the regulations ceramic dancing figures in exotic costumes were favorites in the Art Deco period, starting about 1920. Many different pairs about 19 or 20 inches high have been selling with the mark "Cia Manna" and sometimes the added words "Turin, Italy." A search of old books and even new information online has offered little insight. The pairs of dancing figurines depict a bare-breasted woman and a shirtless man posing in exaggerated dance poses. Dozens of different pairs were made, most from 1925 to the 1950s. An artist and designer named Mrs. Manna, who worked for the Lenci doll company, decided to form her own company in 1930. She named it Ceramica Italiana Artistica. The dancing figurines were marked "C.I.A. Manna." Often the mark omitted the periods, so the first word looked like "Cia." The company worked into the 1950s. The Art Deco look is still popular, and most of the pairs have sold for $800 to $1,500.

O: I know that on "The Crown," each season follows the British royal familv closer to current times. Which era will the next season cover, and when does it begin airing? --R.B.

A: Season four of "The Crown" will take place during the late 1970s to early 1980s. Olivia Colman will continue as Queen Elizabeth, and Gillian Anderson will play Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher in this installment. Emma Corrin has been cast as Princess Diana, but only for the upcoming season, as Australian actress Elizabeth Debicki will play the tragic figure in seasons five and six.

If you haven't heard of Debicki, she has some impressive credits. She was in the British series "The Night Manager," with Tom Hiddleston, and in the Marvel movie "Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 2." She can be seen in the highly anticipated movie "Tenet" once it's Look for the new season of "The Crown" sometime later this year, with season when movies and now TV shows give away so much in previews. I was watching the preview for "Lucifer," and I can't believe what I saw. I should have never watched it. I like to be surprised. -- R.D.

A: You're not alone. Netflix received a lot of complaints for giving away what appears to be a huge spoiler in the trailer for the upcoming season of "Lucifer," but it has assured viewers that "there is so much more" to the plot.

Co-producer Joe Henderson told "TVLine" that "once fans see [the episodes], they'll understand that while it seems like we have spoiled a lot, we have not spoiled much at all."

Q: I've followed Tom Pelphrey's career ever since he played Jonathan on the daytime soap "Guiding Light," and I'm thrilled that he's finally getting bigger roles. However, I can't believe he didn't get an Emmy nomination for "Ozark." I bet he wins an Oscar someday though. --E.E.

A: Pelphrey burst on the soap opera scene back in 2003 when he made his professional acting debut as the troubled Jonathan on "Guiding Light." While he didn't get nominated for playing Ben on the critically acclaimed series "Ozark," he did win two Daytime Emmy Awards in 2006 and 2008. It probably won't be long before he adds a primetime

statuette to his mantel or even, perhaps, an Oscar. Next up for him is the biographical film "Mank," starring Gary Oldman and Amanda Seyfried. Pelphrey will play Hollywood screenwriter and director Joseph Mankiewicz alongside Oldman's Herman Mankiewicz. As for Pelphrey's slight by the Television Academy for his role in "Ozark," you're not alone. Director Alik Sakharov stated that Pelphrey's "superb" performance was a "compendium on acting, on the ability to inhabit the character so, so well -- so deeply, you just don't feel like the person is acting. You feel like he's living the role and you feel like he is that person."

With praise like that, who needs a trophy?

COVID Plays Havoc With Puppy's Vaccines

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: My Labrador puppy, "Charlie," is six months old. He received his first and second round of vaccines, but then our state went into lockdown. Can I hold off on getting the rest of his shots for now, until restrictions ease? -- Blake F., Sacramento

DEAR BLAKE: Contact Charlie's veterinarian first to find out if they are allowing non-urgent visits. The first year of vaccinations is extremely important for your dog's development and long-term health.

Lockdown mandates are making it difficult for everyone to figure out if and when they should visit the vet for their pet's checkups. But veterinarians know how important it is to keep to the vaccine schedule (to learn more, go to akc.org and search for "puppy shots schedule"). By this point they should have some guidelines and a plan for scheduling routine appointments.

That also goes for maintaining adult pets' vaccinations and keeping their licenses current. Contact the veterinarian to find out if they're booking routine appointments.

What if you aren't able to get an appointment to get Charlie's third round of shots? For now, limit his exposure to other dogs, as he still has some risk of contracting serious illnesses like parvovirus. That means no dog park visits or play dates (unless you know the other dog's vaccine status). Let him run in the backyard or go to a state park or other large outdoor area that allows pets and doesn't have many people or animals around. Spend more time training him on basic obedience commands -- if you're both stuck at home, now is the perfect time.

As soon as a vet appointment opens up, take Charlie in and get him up to date on his shots.

OBITUARIES

Celeste Scarnici, 88

Celeste (Hermes) Scarnici, age 88, of Braintree and Harwichport, formerly of Quincy, died peacefully Aug. 20.

Beloved wife of her late husband Frank "Paul" Scarnici for 51 years. Loving mother of Celeste Johnson and her husband Tobey of Braintree and Paul Scarnici and his wife Elaine of Franklin. Daughter of the late Albert and Theresa (Cremen) Hermes. Devoted sister of George Hermes and his wife Mary of Austin, TX, Leon Hermes and his wife Martha of Oldsmar, FL, and the late Herbert Hermes and his late wife Jan. Loving grandmother of Brittany Zahn and her husband Joshua of Braintree, Courtney Anderson and her husband Richard of Watertown and Dillon Scarnici of Franklin. Also survived by her adored great-grandchildren Jackson and Kendall Zahn and several nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Scarnici graduated from Quincy High School, Class of 1950, and went on to graduate from Bentley College in 1955. She was a crossing guard for the town of Braintree when her children were young then became a devoted employee of G.M. Ridge Corp. as bookkeeper for the Blue Hill Cemetery for over 40 years.

The love she shared with her husband was like no other, working side by side building a home in Harwichport for their family vacations with no fear of using a hammer and saw. Their passion for travel took them on many cruises and yearly vacations in Aruba with their dear friends and family.

Mrs. Scarnici led an active life skiing, playing tennis, gardening, swimming, and taking long walks. There was always a hobby in the works with another to follow, and nothing she wouldn't try. For any spare moment, there was always a book close at hand and another new release waiting on a shelf. Mrs. Scarnici shared her love of activities with her children thinking nothing of taking a carload of neighborhood children to ski the White Mountains of New Hampshire or dragging a boat trailer to the lake for a picnic and waterskiing.

Her greatest joy was spending time with her grandchildren cherishing her weekly babysitting days and never missing a sporting event, school presentation, or award ceremony. Her love of hockey led her to become a Boston College hockey season ticket holder, attending several Frozen Four tournaments. Her mid-80s didn't stop her from getting on the floor to entertain her great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Scarnici will be fondly remembered by all who were blessed to have known her.

A private funeral service will be held at Cartwright-Venuti Funeral Home, Braintree, followed by a private graveside service at Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the Alzheimer's Association at alz.org or to St. Jude Children's Hospital at stjude.org.

He was born in Boston, to the late William E. and Delia
A. (Powers) Carras. Raised and educated in Boston's South End, Mr. Carras was a graduate of English High School, Class of 1953. He had lived in Braintree for the past three years, previously in Quincy for over fifty years.

Mr. Carras was proud to have served in the U.S. Air Force during the Korean conflict.

He was a restaurateur in the Boston area for many years. Mr. Carras was the former owner and operator of the Hercules Club on Tremont Street in Boston in the 1960s, the Pines Lodge and Motel in Wrentham in the 1970s, and Middle Street Pizza in Weymouth in the 1980s. He went on to serve as the purchasing manager and oversaw kitchen operations at Father Bill's Place in Quincy for several years.

Mr. Carras was a compassionate person known for helping others, especially those struggling with substance use disorders. He was a talented cook and enjoyed preparing meals for family and friends.

Most of all, Mr. Carras was devoted to his family and especially enjoyed supporting the activities and accomplishments of his beloved grandsons.

Gary P. Lee, 65

Gary Paul Lee, 65, of Northwood, NH, died Aug. 7 at home from lung cancer.

He leaves his beloved wife Debbie (Kaye), his son Dana and daughter Mary Kate. Mr. Lee was born on July 8, 1955 and is recorded as the first birth at Quincy City Hospital delivered under hypnosis. He was the son of the late Lester H. Lee and is survived by his mother Barbara (Fitzgerald) Lee of Mashpee (formerly of Quincy and Braintree), his brother Michael of East Providence, RI, sister Nancy Carey of Squantum, two aunts, several cousins, nieces, nephews and friends.

Mr. Lee attended Braintree schools and is remembered as a star athlete. He played on many soccer and baseball teams from his youth through high school and was a member of the 1972 State Championship baseball team in Braintree. After graduating from Braintree High, class of 1973, he received a B.S. in marketing from Babson College.

Mr. Lee was an avid fan of all sports and enjoyed attending or watching events in his leisure time. After college he played in softball leagues and many rounds of golf, including several trips to Hilton Head with friends. He moved back to Quincy in 1985 after purchasing and then renovating his grandparent's former home with long-time friend Dana Olson. Mr. Lee was very handy with tools and took pride working on a variety of home repair projects. After marrying Debbie, they lived in Seabrook NH, Newmarket NH and moved to Northwood, NH in 1998.

GARYPIE

He worked in the heavy construction equipment rental business and had recently retired. Mr. Lee was a past president of Adams Heights Men's Club. His infectious smile will be missed by all who knew him.

There were no funeral arrangements per his wishes.

M. Rita Collins

M. Rita Collins, born Oct. 1, 1916, died Aug. 14.

Her name was Mary Rita, but everyone called her Rita. She was the daughter of Richard J. and Elizabeth R. (Gaffield) Collins. She was the oldest of eight children. She was predeceased by her five brothers, Richard Jr., J. Daniel, Thomas, Francis and Paul Collins, and her two sisters, Elizabeth Collins and Emily Gill. She leaves behind many nieces and nephews, great nieces and nephews, and great-great nieces and nephews.

She would have turned 104 years old on Oct. 1.

Ms. Collins was born and raised in Dorchester. She lived there all her life until moving to Quincy five years ago at age 98. Ms. Collins was a long-time parishioner of Saint Brendan's Parish in Dorchester. During the Great Depression, times were tough and money was tight. To help support the family, Ms. Collins worked at a nail polish factory during the day and attended the Roxbury Evening Commercial High School at night, earning her high school degree. She became a proficient accountant and was employed by a food brokerage firm in Braintree for many years until her retirement. Ms. Collins was a very independent woman. She never married or had children of her own. Instead, she doted on her many nieces and nephews.

Ms. Collins loved her family and they loved her. She was a pleasant, kind, sociable person. She had a wonderful sense of humor and was a great conversationalist. Ms. Collins had a sharp mind right up to the very end of her life. She loved decorating her home and visiting the homes of friends and relatives. Ms. Collins especially loved spending time at her sister Emily's house on the beach in Hull. She spent many happy hours sitting on the porch chatting with her sisters and watching her nieces and nephews swimming and playing on the beach.

Joseph O'Malley, 82, of Weymouth, died peacefully Aug. 14 at Brigham and Women's Hospital in Bos-

Born in Carraroe, County Galway, Ireland, on Feb. 14, 1938, he was the son of the late Patrick and Ann (Griffin) O'Malley. Mr. O'Malley was raised in Ireland before immigrating to the United States in 1959.

He was an extremely hard worker. At just 14 years old, Mr. O'Malley began working on a farm that required him to bicycle 25 miles from his home in Connemara. He moved to England at the age of 16 and worked in construction there until he immigrated to the United States in 1959. He settled in Boston and worked as a union carpenter. Along with help from friends, Mr. O'Malley built the Weymouth home where he raised his family. When he wasn't working, he most enjoyed playing cards, attending Irish football matches, visiting his homeland and never turned down an invitation to a party.

One of Mr. O'Malley's greatest joys was entertaining people with his accordion tunes. Friends and family would gather for hours, listening, dancing and singing

MA Approved For Lost Wages Assistance Grant

Massachusetts' application to receive grant funding to pay an additional weekly unemployment benefit to claimants under the federal Lost Wages Supplemental Payment Assistance (LWA) program has been approved by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). The application was submitted late last week by the Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency (MEMA), in coordination with the Department of Unemployment Assistance (DUA).

Per FEMA's authorization, the grant will fund an additional $300 weekly payment to those who are eligible for the three weeks ending 8/1/20, 8/8/20, and 8/15/20. The Massachusetts Department of Unemployment Assistance has already begun work on the technology requirements necessary for this program and anticipates being able to quickly deliver retroactive funds to eligible claimants in the coming weeks. Most claimants currently receiving benefits do not need to take any action because the Commonwealth will automatically add LWA to their weekly benefit payment retroactive to the dates they are

Quincy Rep. Tackey Chan Endorses Markey For U.S. Senate

State Rep. Tackey Chan, who represents Second Norfolk District in Quincy, announces he is endorsing incumbent Sen. Edward Markey for U.S. Senate.

In a letter submitted to The Ouincy Sun for publication, Chan said:

"During these uncertain times, Ed Markey is who we need in the United States Senate because experience matters. The most important aspect of being an elected official is not forgetting the people you work for. Massachusetts residents need help right now; regardless of current national and international issues.

"Ed Markey understands that. He also knows that investment in coastal defenses is as important as long-term climate change mitigation. That's why Ed brought crucial federal funding to Quincy for sea wall construction and helped save people's homes. He stepped up during the COVID-19 pandemic - keeping Massachusetts and Quincy at the table for funding its community health centers, small businesses, unemployment benefits and expanded CO-VID-19 testing. Ed stands with Asian Americans against racist attacks resulting from fear and misconceptions associated with

"Voting is a fundamental right and Ed is holding the U.S. Postmaster General accountable by making sure our ballots reach Quincy City Hall. He is preserving the integrity of the United States Census to ensure that all of our voices are represented in Washington D.C. He knows that all people in Quincy, a city of immigrants, must be counted.

COVID-19.

"Ed Markey is the same young man, from a working-class family in Malden that he has always been. He knows that politics is not about stepping on people to succeed but about giving a hand up to those who need it. We need more people like Senator Ed Markey to represent us. I ask that you please vote to send Ed Markey back to work for us on Sept. 1st," Chan added.

OBITUARY

Virginia 'Ginny' Giblin, 94

Virginia "Ginny" (Howe) Giblin, 94, of Quincy, died peacefully Aug. 23 at her granddaughter's home in Lowell.

Ginny was raised in Dorchester by her parents Thomas A. Howe and Mary (Fife) Howe. She graduated from Dorchester High School in 1944 where she was senior class secretary. Upon graduating, she worked as a stenographer at the Boston Edison Company. She was married to Edward "Rock" Giblin for 55 years and moved to Quincy later in life.

Coming from a big family of 13, Ginny was the youngest of 11 brothers and sisters. Everyone loved Ginny's warmth and the comfort her kind spirit gave to others. She was a devoted member of St. John the Baptist church in Quincy, and would say the rosary every day. She enjoyed her family, friends, bingo, and big band music. Ginny will be dearly missed by all.

Ginny had three children, a son David Howe Giblin (d.1991) of Racine, WI, a son Brian Giblin and his

A Job Well Done

The operator agreed and was walked to the rear of the vehicle. The detective identified himself as a detective from the Quincy Police and advised the operator of his rights per Miranda. Detectives asked the operator who had just been in and out of his car at Home Depot and he said "it was my boy, he owed me $360 for a pair of Gucci sneakers I sold him a while ago."

The detective asked what the male's name was and he said that he didn't know. The detective asked if there were any drugs in the car and he said "Yea I have some weed." Based on the large fold of currency in the cup holder, their previous observations, and the male admitting to having marijuana in the car, a detective opened the center console and saw two large knotted bags and a heat-sealed bag containing what he recognized as marijuana. The operator (Defendant #1) was placed under arrest. The Explorer was towed to Schlager's where a more thorough search could be conducted safely.

Inside the Explorer, detectives located two baby bottles, each of which contained a small amount of pink liquid believed to be Codeine and two digital scales.

Simultaneously the Altima was followed as it traveled from Burgin Parkway to Newport Ave. At the intersection of Newport Ave. and Furnace Brook Parkway a decision was made to stop the Altima after learning that officers had recovered money and numerous bags of marijuana from the Explorer. As detectives approached the Altima, they noticed that the black male they had observed getting in and out of the Explorer had a red tray on his lap, with broken up marijuana apparently preparing to roll the marijuana (Defendant

All four parties were removed from the Altima in order to speak with each individually. A detective conducted a pat frisk of rear seat passenger (Defendant #2) and immediately felt a hard object that the detective recognized to be the grip portion of a firearm. He told the other detectives on scene that he could feel a firearm and Defendant #2 turned towards him and said "Don't worry, it's not for you though." Defendant #2 was placed into handcuffs.

The detective opened the bag and observed the grip of a black firearm, as well as a large amount of cash, in numerous folds. A detective removed the firearm and rendered the gun safe. The firearm, a Sig Sauer P250 .40 caliber, was loaded with 12 rounds in the magazine and one in the chamber for a total of 13 rounds. All other occupants of the Altima were also removed and placed into handcuffs.

Detectives advised Defendant #2 of his rights per Miranda and he stated that he understood. Detectives demanded he show his license to carry a firearm and he said he didn't have one and that he was 19 years old. All occupants of the Altima were searched. Marijuana was recovered in the vehicle. In total, detectives seized approximately $36,000 in cash which they believed to be proceeds from drug sales.

Defendant #1, a 24-year-old from Broad Street, Weymouth was arrested and charged with distribution Class B (codeine) and possession with intent to distribute Class D (marijuana).

Defendant #2, a 19-year-old from Adams Street, Boston, was arrested and charged with possession of firearm without FID card, possession of a large capacity feeding device, illegal possession of ammunition, possession of Class B, possession with intent to distribute Class D, and conspiracy to violate the Controlled Substance Act.

The operator of the vehicle, a 20-year-old from Columbia Street, Dorchester, was arrested and charged with possession with intent to distribute Class D, operating after revocation, and conspiracy to violate the Controlled Substance Act.

The third occupant of the vehicle, a 21-year-old from Roxbury, is being summonsed for possession with Intent to distribute Class D and conspiracy to violate the Controlled Substance Act.

The fourth occupant of the vehicle, a 20-year-old from Dorchester, was released and is not facing charges at this time.

Great work!

Census Takers In City: What You Should Know

By QUINCY POLICE SGT. KARYN BARKAS

Public Information Officer

Quincy Police Department

I have heard that Census takers will be in the city for the next few weeks to visit homes that haven't yet responded to the 2020 census. I don't have specific areas/days of where they will be.

Here is some helpful information in case they come to your house. This information was taken from the 2020census.gov website.

What To Expect:

Census takers will wear masks and follow local public health guidelines when they visit your home. All census takers complete a virtual COVID-19 training on social distancing and other health and safety protocols before beginning their work in neighborhoods.

Census takers are hired from your area, and their goal is to help you and everyone in your home be counted in the 2020 Census. If the census taker who visits your home does not speak your language, you may request a return visit from a census taker who does speak your language.

Census takers work between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m., including weekends (PLEASE NOTE THE TIMES). If no one is home when the census taker visits, the census taker will leave a notice of their visit with information about how to respond online, by phone or by mail.

If you respond online or by phone today, a census taker is less likely to have to visit your home to collect your response.

How Can You Verify That Someone Is A Census Taker?

If someone visits your home this year to collect information for the 2020 Census, check to make sure they have a valid ID badge with their photograph, a U.S. Department of Commerce watermark, and an expiration date. Census workers may also carry Census Bureau bags and other equipment with the Census Bureau logo.

If you still have questions about their identity, you can contact the regional census center to speak with a Census Bureau Representative at 212-882-1700. If you determine that the visitor who came to your door does not work for the Census Bureau, contact our dispatch at 617.479.1212.

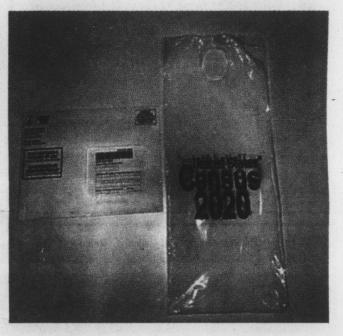

Avoiding Scams Online

Phishing is a criminal act in which someone tries to get your information by pretending to be an entity that you trust. Phishing emails often direct you to a website that looks real but is fake—and may be infected with malware. A key way to identify scam websites is to look at the website address; if you think it may not be legitimate, don't click on any links. All valid Census Bureau websites will always have ".gov" at the end.

Further, during the 2020 Census, the Census Bureau will never ask for:

- Your Social Security number
- Your bank account or credit card numbers
- Anything on-behalf of a political party
- Money or donations.

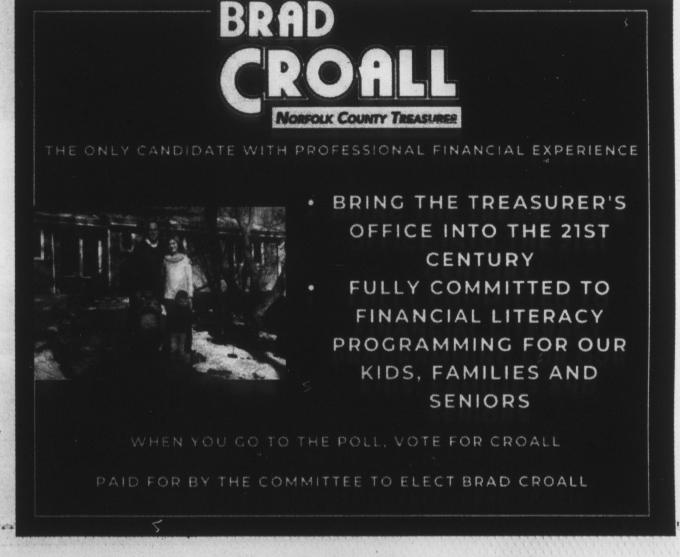

For questions about responding to the 2020 census, call 844-300-2020 from 7 a.m. to 2 a.m. Eastern time. Here is a link to their FAQ's:

"I am proud of Quincy and all of Norfolk County. It's been my home my entire life. It is part of who I am and why I am committed to giving back to our city and all Norfolk County communities—to strengthen our region for the future."

Joe Shea, Norfolk County Commissioner

Joe with Quincy Council President Nina Liang

Joe SHEA

County Commissioner

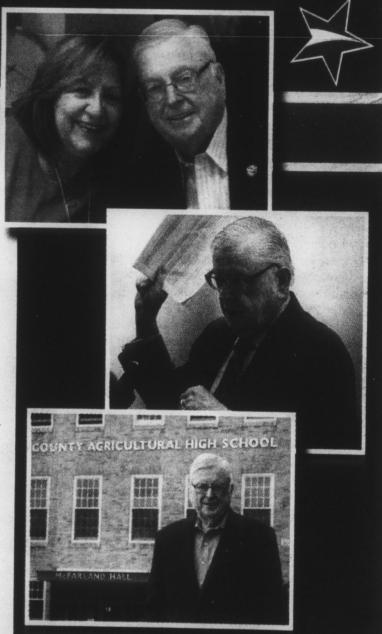

County government can play a greater role in our everyday lives. We need a Norfolk County Government that addresses the needs of all 28 communities and provides real value to all of us.

For the past 5 years, as Norfolk County Commissioner, I have worked to reform our county government to be more cost-effective, inclusive, transparent, and provide a greater benefit to the lives of Norfolk County residents.

From modernizing the county's budget process, to investing in capital improvements to promoting regional services, I am working to make sure our Norfolk County Government works for you.

- ✓ Summer youth employment, course investments and tennis court renovations at Presidents Golf Course
- ✓ Capital repairs and enhanced parking accessibility at Quincy District Court
- ✓ Strong partnership with local and non-profit leaders to help move Quincy forward.

Please join me in continuing to improve our county government.

On or before Sept. 1, Please Vote to Re-Elect

Joe Shea, Democrat for Norfolk County Commissioner
